

I have been part of the military for 17 years, postings in Norfolk, North Yorkshire, Hampshire and now Cyprus and deployments to the Falkland Islands and Afghanistan. I have worked in an electronics and ICT environment, gaining my Foundation Degree in Science and recently joining the Institute of Engineering Technology.

I have lived on Akrotiri for 2 years with my wife Angela and 2 daughters Elizabeth and Rebecca. Elizabeth has completed her GCSEs at St John's, achieving excellent grades and is now studying 4 A-levels. St John's has been extremely supportive throughout her time, even going as far as organising transport and accommodation so she could attend the awards ceremony of the Orwell Youth Prize in Oxford.

The constant moving of families, I recognise MOD schooling plays such an important role to anchor a child's education. This is one of many reasons I want to aid the school in any way I can.

My interests include Football, family days out, tracing family heritage and currently exploring this island.
